

Lingering Question: Why did God include such a conspicuously complete set of information if He did not intend us to make use of it as data at some point?

